Dale Larson Demo & Classes

February 27

Hailing from Gresham, Oregon, Dale is the first demonstrator to visit the CWT in 2010. Dale's specialty is bowls, lots of bowls. Gallery-level bowls, bowls suitable for collections and museums. He works mostly with big leaf Maple and Madrone, creating useful items that have a subtle beauty.

A turner for over 31 years, Dale has constantly refined his techniques and processes for efficient, successful bowl making. As a frequent demonstrator, his teaching techniques have been finely honed, as well. His demonstration on Saturday, February 27 will include all of the techniques you need to be a successful bowl turner. His hands-on classes, Feb. 28 and March 1&2, will take your bowl turning techniques to the next level.

See pg. 4 for class pricing and sign-up information

Join us in February (and March, for the 2 day class) and learn how to take a log and create an heirloom bowl.

Kris Southerland's Custom Pen Blanks at the January 12 CWT Meeting

Looking for something truly custom-made? Do your pens seem like the same old thing? Here's your chance to learn a truly creative technique. Kris Southerland will demonstrate how to cast your own acrylic pen blanks at the January meeting. We have all admired Kris's great pens, and have marveled at the unique acrylic material he uses. As they say on TV, "Not Available In Stores! Join us for this exclusive offer!" This time, there's no fine print and no disclaimer. Be there in January to see how Kris makes his one of a kind pen blanks, and then you can get creative too.

Phil Brooks

In 2009, you and your club:

- Sent over 200 pens to our troops overseas as part of the Freedom Pens Project.
- Contributed over 100 pieces of turned art to Empty Bowls, helping that group raise thousands of dollars to fund local food banks.
- Exposed hundreds of people to the art and craft of woodturning at SOFA Chicago and Learn to Turn at The Wood Show, inspiring a new generation of turners who care about their community.

Curls From the President's Platter
Phil Brooks

Looking back on this holiday season, what better way for the Chicago Woodturners to start it than making over 200 pens for Freedom Pens for the troops overseas and 107 items for Empty Bowls to help feed the hungry. Don McCloskey deserves special recognition for his extended and tireless effort to promote these causes among the club members. Members who contributed to the Empty Bowls project included Roger Shackelford, Andy Kuby, Jim Wickersham, Don McCloskey, Bill Robb, Michael Kuehl, Al Miotke, Bill Brown, Jason Swanson, Alan Carter, Paul Shotola, Don Heard, Joe Scheffer, Ken Staggs, Josh Conan, Paul Pycik, Richard Nye, Clint Stevens, DBJ, Tim Feeley, MV and Phil Brooks. Sorry for the initials but DBJ and MV just signed their initials to their pieces.

A special thanks to Paul Shotola, Clint Stevens, Al Miotke, Paul Pycik, Marie Anderson and June Brooks for setting up the Christmas Party this year. As a special treat we were again entertained by a repeat performance of the Indigo Jazz vocal group from Palatine High School. Their director announced that they were being considered for performing at the White House on December 21st. As luck would have it, they were selected, but there was one major problem, three members of the group could not afford to attend. Your board of directors voted unanimously to sponsor one of the members from some of the funds earned during our 2008 Symposium. One of our goals is to give back to the community and this year has been our best year ever in helping those in need. Congratulations to all of you who contributed your time and effort.

As another community outreach effort in December, Jim Wickersham headed up a group to do demonstrations and tell people about our club at the Woodworkers Show at the Schaumburg Convention Center. Jim has done this for three or four years now and he gets better at it every year. A special thanks to all of the volunteers who helped Jim make this three day show event successful.

Have a great holiday and I'll see you next year.

Membership Updates

Al Miotke

The weather didn't want to co-operate again this year but that did not stop over 70 people from attending the December meeting and holiday party which had great food and spectacular entertainment. We had approximately 55 members in attendance plus many spouses at this year's event. We even saw two members that were not able to be with us in 2009 join the festivities and become members again for 2010. Welcome back to Dorothy (you know her as Dodie) Baumgarten and John Devitt. We had a very active membership year and ended 2009 with 190 members including 39 first-time people joining the group.

Thanks to the 74 members that are up to date with 2010 dues. All paid members will receive their membership cards by the 1st week of January.

You can renew your membership by mailing a check to the address shown or by bringing your check to the January meeting.

I look forward to seeing everyone return for what is sure to be an enjoyable and educational 2010.

Newsletter Notes

Paul Shotola

This issue marks my 25th "As the Wood Turns," a milestone of sorts. With considerable assistance from a talented crew of writers, photographers and assistant editors, I've tried to entertain, inform and inspire you, the CWT member. After 25 issues, however, it is time to pass the newsletter on to another member, as my tasks with Turn-On-Chicago 2010 require all of my efforts at this time.

A fresh look, a fresh viewpoint and new voices will only improve your newsletter. The new editor will have all of the assistance and resources at his or her disposal, including my help and encouragement. Contact me with any questions, and be assured that the newsletter staff will help in any way possible to help you get settled in.

January Meeting

Sharpening is one of the most important skills to be mastered at the lathe. In conjunction with January's mentoring session (see pg. 6) we will have a Oneway Wolverine Grinding Jig on the table, ready to mount to your bench grinder. It's time to get sharp!

We'll also have some bags of pen blanks and kits, courtesy of Mike Malloy, and a nice selection of turning blanks. Remember, the ticket you don't buy is ~~probably~~ undoubtedly the next prize winner! Support your club and add to your turning stock and equipment. It's win-win!

2010 Guest Demonstrators

Paul Shotola

Our Demonstrations Chairman, Binh Pho, has once again arranged for a great lineup of demonstrators for the coming year. Binh strives to strike a balance of subjects and demonstrators that appeal to seasoned lathe artists and new turners alike.

In 2010, we'll have Dale Larson from Oregon. Dale is a bowl turner par excellence, producing gallery level salad bowls. Dale is on the board of the AAW.

Art Liestman is from Canada, and studied with Jacques Vesery. Art's work is playful and imaginative. We've been waiting a long time for a visit from him.

From New Zealand, Graeme Priddle

returns to amaze us with his vision and innovative techniques. He may trip the smoke alarms with his pyrography (that's wood-burning to you and me) techniques.

All this in addition to the fantastic lineup at Turn-On! Chicago in August. It's going to be a busy and entertaining year!

AAW News and UpdatesAl Miotke

I was sure that the AAW board would be busy making ornaments, bottle stoppers, and pepper mills this month like the rest of us, but there was still some news to report. Bill Haskell, the current AAW president, found time to write a year end letter that you can see in full on the AAW website. It was a very timely reminder to give thanks for all the volunteers that make the AAW such a successful organization. The core of the AAW's management are the 9 elected board members and 20 committees they participate in. In addition to these elected officials, there are countless additional volunteers needed that help with the symposium, committees, and other activities. If you are interested in volunteering at the national level, contact one of the board members or call the headquarters in Minneapolis. Bill also reminds us to all offer support to Tom Wirsing who will be the new board president in 2010.

I also did a quick check and found out that 114 of our 191 members in 2009 are also AAW members. That is a good percentage but if you are not a member, now is the perfect time of the year to consider joining. Remember, the AAW is increasing from 4 to 6 issues of the journal this year.

Finally, an email was sent to the all AAW chapters by John Hill, the AAW insurance advisory committee chairman, to clarify the FREE coverage provided to all AAW members and chapters.

This coverage is summarized in the letter as follows: All AAW members, all AAW chapters, and the AAW are insured against any bodily injury claims that may be brought against them for bodily injuries that they may have caused to another person while the AAW member, chapter, or AAW was performing an AAW or AAW chapter sanctioned activity. If a non-AAW member is found to have caused a bodily injury to another person, our AAW furnished insurance does not protect them from such a claim. Hey, here's another good reason to consider membership.

I hope everyone had a good holiday season and found some time to turn the lathe on and turn on the lathe.

CWT Mentoring Returns in January 5:30 PM

Mentoring is the cornerstone of turning education. The CWT has supported and encouraged mentoring programs in various forms since our inception, 23 years ago. In November, Dan and Marie Anderson were at Woodcraft at 5:30 PM to help members (especially the newer turners amongst us) solve their problems and get started with solid techniques. The enthusiastic response means that mentoring continues in January, with sharpening techniques on both the dry grinder and the wet wheel.

December Holiday Party

A great time was had by attendees to the Holiday Party in December. The weather was risky, but the membership turned out in force to share their favorite turnings, great food and conversation.

Palatine High School's Indigo Jazz

A highlight was the return of Indigo Jazz, the elite, all-volunteer vocal group from Palatine High School. Decked out in traditional "lumberjack" garb (where did they find those fur hats?), they provided spirited and beautiful music to help make our party a success.

Jazz member seems happy to be here!

Elf #1, Marie Anderson made certain the meeting area was decorated and swept (!), and organized the procurement of gifts for each of the 35 choir members. When Indigo Jazz realized that we had gifts for them, an audible gasp of delight was heard!

Marie presented Director Steve Sivak with a custom pen as a token of our appreciation. Steve recounted that two years ago, he was given a director's baton by the CWT, and that it had brought the choir good luck. He announced that the group hoped to be invited to perform at the White House on December 21st, and they were, so their luck must be holding. I personally don't think luck had as much to do with the invitation as did hard work and dedication.

Director Steve Sivak with Marie Anderson

Cake with a wish list

Thanks to Jan Shotola for arranging the choir's visit, Marie Anderson's efforts setting up, decorating and organizing the event, Dan Anderson for staying up all night watching the sloppy joes cook, Clint Stevens, Andy Kuby, Al Miotke, Phil Brooks and Paul Pycik for setting up and to June Brooks for giving the room a festive touch with her decorating. Hard work and dedication, indeed.

December Meeting MinutesAndy Kuby

The party, or rather Meeting, was called to order at 7pm by President Phil Brooks with an invocation by Thomas Stegall and we promptly attacked the two tables of meatballs, sloppy joes (Dan Anderson had to buy a new can opener just for the occasion), potato salad, bean dip, chips, salads, veggies, olives (thanks to Rich Nye from Paul Shotola who ate nearly all of them) and more cookies, cakes and sweets than we had any right to. Thanks to all of the members who brought in their own specialties and especially Marie Anderson, June Brooks, Jan and Paul Shotola, Clint Stevens and Al Miotke for the extra work in setting up.

In his opening remarks Phil reminded everyone that dues for the CWT ($25) and AAW ($48) are both due this month. Al Miotke will have the red labels ready for anybody who didn't get the message, and with all that AAW dues for us what is your current excuse for not joining AAW?

Speaking of the AAW, we now have our own board member, Binh Pho. Binh gave a short introduction to the AAW and a few reasons for joining. The increase in frequency of the best turning magazine on the planet is one of the major ones. Make sure you let Binh know what AAW is doing right, or wrong.

The more fashion conscience (or just plain procrastinating) members got a last chance to purchase Turn-On-Chicago! 2008 t-shirts. This fashion statement will not be repeated. Remember to sign up early for Turn-On-Chicago! 2010 for your chance to get the newest edition of the must have t-shirt for turners. We'll need volunteers too. Please see Andy Kuby to be a room assistant, it's the best seat in the house!

The gallery was not critiqued, on screen, but there were certainly a lot of comments between those who brought something in and the armchair turners. Paul Shotola tried to raffle off a few of the items when the owners weren't paying attention.

Lee Svec announced three new DVDs for the library featuring Dan Carter, Clint Stevens and Darrell Rader. Check with our librarian, Clint Stevens to check these out.

Don McCloskey reported that CWT donated over 100 pieces to Empty Bowls which generated over $2,400 of the approximately $20,000 raised. Empty Bowls supports 5 local food pantries serving over 6,000 families. The Freedom Pens project has over 200 pens to date.

The real business for the evening was the election of Phil Brooks as President and Andy Kuby as Secretary for new terms. Neither of the votes was unanimous, as June Brooks voted nay for Phil and both Don McCloskey and Andy Kuby thought we might find someone better as the club scribe.

Indigo Jazz from Palatine High School was back after a one year break and they were even better than last time. The group has been asked to perform at the White House, and to think they started out in the basement with the Lumberjacks. "I'm a Lumberjack and I'm OK" was not on the program. Maybe next year. The CWT presented each of the singers with a hand turned gift and the response was extremely gratifying. Thanks to all who took the time to prepare the gifts. We wish them luck in Washington and hope that they return next year.

Bill Robb's cleanup crew was augmented by most of the original setup crew and a few members who were just looking for sloppy joes and cookies to take home. They were not disappointed.

Respectfully submitted,

Andy Kuby, Incoming Secretary

Someone's bowl is always empty.

Empty Bowls
At Oakton
Saturday, Dec. 5

Marie and Don help Empty Bowls staffers set up the silent Auction

Interest is high for turned objects

Ceramics, glass and wood feed the hungry

"Someone's bowl is always empty"

Empty Bowls at Oakton College, December 5, 2009

Clint Stevens

If you are new to "Empty Bowls," it's an international project to raise awareness of the hungry people everywhere. Money is raised to help ease a bit of that hunger. Also, the event serves as a voice for arts education. On December 5th, the Chicago Woodturners took joy in participating in Empty Bowls at Oakton Community College. For a nominal donation of $12, participants were gifted with a choice of hand thrown art student pottery bowl, soup, a roll, and music. Although that may sound a bit austere (Ed note: hunger is austere), it has a feel of community, fine art, and opportunity. Opportunity? Yes, it's a buzz to put in a successful bid on your club-mates work. This has become the perfect holiday season kickoff event.

The Silent Auction featuring turned wood art

Wood and ceramic art

The Chicago Woodturners donated 105 woodturnings which were available at a silent auction. Our turnings helped Empty Bowls to raise enough money to support a fifth local food bank. Not a bad effort for a small group of woodturners.

If you have ever had a question about how the world sees your turnings, mark the 2010 Empty Bowls event on your calendar, make and donate a few turnings, and show up. The silent auction tables with our turnings are a strong highlight. It's an affirmation to your talent to see how attendees fawn over and admire all of the woodturnings.

In addition to a great event with strong CWT participation (thanks to our tender-hearted lion Don McCloskey), Empty Bowls offers surprises. In my case, I ate lunch with two people from my old Chicago neighborhood, was offered walnut logs, and learned of one my favorite local artist's retrospective at Oakton Community College. Good benefits.

Let me close with a small challenge. If you are lucky during 2010, you will be at a bistro where the waiter will say something like this:

"Tonight, we feature medallions of stuffed sea chortle and kelp in a rich maldamere sauce, seasoned with disheveled herbs grown in our own herbarium. It is baked to perfection in an inverted Samurian helmet, then layered with steamed wuzzle leaves."

At that point, the challenge is to think of the people who are not eating as well as you. Eat dinner, pay the outrageous check, get to the shop and turn an Empty Bowls project. Not only is it a great cause, but they call us "artists."

Turn-On! Chicago 2010

August 20-22, 2010

The Conference Center at the University of Saint Mary of the Lake, Mundelein IL

Turn-On! Chicago 2010 builds on the success of our 2008 Symposium, adding top-tier demonstrators, hands-on events and more activities for turners of all skill levels and interests.

Activities begin at 8:00 AM on Friday, August 20

Featured Demonstrators

Jimmy Clewes	Carole Floate	Binh Pho
Kirk DeHeer	Lyle Jamieson	Dick Sing
Don Derry	John Jordan	Malcolm Tibbetts
Cindy Drozda	David Nittmann	Don Ward

For 2010, the Symposium features more demonstrations (50 rotations in 5 well-equipped classrooms) by the finest wood artists and demonstrators around. There will be demonstrations geared to every level and type of turning. From basic bowls to the most advanced carving and surface embellishment, there is something for everyone at Turn-On! Chicago 2010.

2010 CWT Members receive a $20.00 discount for early registration. Register for $240 beginning at the January 12 meeting and anytime through the March 9 meeting to receive your discount.

Symposium attendance fee is $260.00 and includes all demonstrations, meals, trade show access, hands-on events and the Saturday Banquet and Auction. Even the parking is free!

The conference center has all amenities on-site. Once you arrive, there is no need to leave the facility. On-site housing is available in the residence hall:

$58 for single occupancy and $96 for double occupancy.

 for details and the latest updates. A printable registration form is available on the website

August 20-22, 2010
Mundelein, IL

TOC 2010 will feature an evening of hands-on pen turning hosted by renowned pen maker Don Ward. Pens produced will be donated to the Freedom Pens Project and will be sent to our troops serving in foreign lands, reminding them of the support they so richly deserve from all of us back home. If you are a new pen turner, Don Ward and a staff of CWT volunteers will be there to help you make your pen an heirloom that our service men and women will cherish forever.

Each month we'll take a look at Demonstrators and Events at TOC 2010

Jimmy Clewes, Las Vegas NV

Jimmy Clewes is possibly the hardest working man in woodturning. Constantly touring, demonstrating and teaching woodturning, Jimmy has built a well-deserved reputation as an entertaining demonstrator.

Jimmy has produced three series of turning videos, each demonstrating techniques that you can use in your home studio.

A native of jolly old England, the home of traditional woodturning, an apprenticeship teaching at Craft Supplies UK led to his career as a turning educator. Now based in Las Vegas, NV, we're pleased to have Jimmy at TOC 2010. He guarantees to entertain, amaze and show you his techniques for success at the lathe.

"When I can stir the creativity of one's mind, that for me is very satisfying."

Malcolm Tibbetts, Lake Tahoe CA

Creative precision. That sums up Malcolm Tibbetts' sensational segmented work. His work ranges from useful items to the most imaginative works of art around.

A frequent demonstrator, Malcolm is on the AAW board and is the founding president of the Segmented Woodturning Chapter. He's the creator of two DVD series on segmented turning.

His demonstrations will teach beginning and advanced techniques that you can put to use at home. Make sure you join us for some inspiring and entertaining demonstrations, pushing the boundaries of segmented turning.
